

EPIC GUIDE - GRADES K-5

Hindu Gods: A Coloring Collection

The story in a nutshell

Hindu stories are full of gods and goddesses, and each one has a special job and a favorite story. Ganesha (gah-NESH-ah), the beloved elephant god, clears obstacles out of the way and loves sweet modak treats. Krishna (KRISH-nah) is playful and clever, famous for his flute, his mischief as a baby, and his wise advice to his friend Arjuna. Hanuman (HAH-noo-mahn), the mighty monkey hero, is loyal and brave, and he once leaped across the ocean to help Rama rescue Sita. Lakshmi (LUHK-shmee), the goddess of good fortune, reminds everyone that a generous heart is the greatest treasure of all. Together, these four friends teach wisdom, kindness, courage, and giving in story after story.

"Wisdom, playfulness, loyalty, and generosity make every team stronger."

Meet the gods and goddesses in seven parts

1. Each god and goddess has a special job
2. Ganesha clears obstacles out of the way
3. Krishna, the playful and clever hero
4. Hanuman, the helper who never gives up
5. Lakshmi, goddess of good fortune
6. Families light lamps to say thank you
7. Kindness shines in every story

Talk about it

1. Each god and goddess has a special job. Ganesha clears the way, and Hanuman helps others. What special job would you pick, and why?
2. Krishna solves problems with clever tricks, and Lakshmi is generous with good fortune. When is it better to be clever, and when is it better to be generous?
3. These four friends appear in many stories together with Rama, Sita, and other heroes. Who would you want on your team for a big adventure?

Make a god and goddess gallery!

Make a god and goddess gallery! Draw a small card for each friend you met: Ganesha, Krishna, Hanuman, and Lakshmi. Under each drawing, write one kind word that fits them, like wise, playful, loyal, or generous. Hang your gallery where your family can see it.

Teacher tip: pairs with lessons on world religions taught respectfully, character traits, and comparing heroes across cultures. The Who's Who episodes on the blog introduce the wider cast in story order.
